BACKPACK FULL OF CASH

NARRATED BY MATT DAMON

Now playing in your Virtual Theater: Backpack Full of Cash!

Theaters may be closed—but you can still hold an Online Community Screening Event.

Click here to purchase.

For $200, we will provide a 72-hour, private screening link that you can share with up to 200 participants. You decide on a discussion format that is right for you and your audience, using Zoom or another video conferencing tool.

Don't let social distancing stop the conversation!

Organize a virtual Backpack screening and discussion in your community! With Betsy DeVos pushing her school privatization agenda in the midst of the current crisis, this conversation is as urgent as ever.

Here's how some groups have already organized online events:

At Bucknell U. in PA, Janet VanLone had her class read Diane Ravitch's new book, Slaying Goliath, watch Backpack Full of Cash and then attend a virtual discussion. We think this is a great idea!

Professor VanLone meets with her class, after Backpack virtual screening.

In South Bend, IN, community groups sent the Backpack link to 200 people and held a virtual screening followed by a Zoom discussion with break-out rooms...A group in Atlanta had a screening and discussion at their virtual annual convention.

Remember, Backpack is also available for private Home Streaming at Vimeo on Demand — use Coupon Code HOME for a 50% discount through July 1st.

For Educational Streaming by schools, colleges and libraries visit Films Media Group.

We offer Backpack in English and Spanish, along with online resources to organize and promote your event.

Please stay safe and stay well!
